FRUSTRATIONS breed strange notions, which would seem to be true even of such pillars of sobriety as the London "Economist." This usually staid weekly, whose criticism of British government policy is almost invariably balanced by the presentation of alternative policies, has joined that section of the British press which believes that the official reaction of Sir Anthony Eden's Government to the Nasser's nationalization of the Suez Canal Company has been ill-considered and that attempts to impose a solution of the dispute stand on legal feet of clay. Among the alternatives which the "Economist" offers this time is the construction of a second canal from Gaza to Akaba, or the construction of an oil pipeline in this same territory - "the de facto frontier between Israel and Egypt."

THE "Economist" is sufficiently far-sighted to inquire as to the likelihood which might persuade Egypt to agree to, say, the United Nations taking over and administering a strip of land in this area. It has a question too: such a strip could carry pipelines and "other traffic." The journal's suggestion is an Egyptian-Jordanian land bridge, cutting diagonally across the Negev, makes no mention of the incident that the territory is administered neither by Egypt, Jordan, nor yet Britain, but is an integral part of Israel. This is dismissed as a "territorial settlement" on the borders of Palestine could be a "beneficiary" who would be the beneficiary is not specified. The "Economist" assumes that the whole world stands to gain at the expense of no one, since the absence of a final territorial border settlement apparently makes a no-man's-land of the land between the borders as well.

FROM this particular vantage point, of course, the "Economist" reasoning seems strange and silly. Britain's position with regard to the principle of free transit through the Suez Canal is not so much a phantasmagorical solution. On every occasion when this freedom was violated, and invariably by the Egyptian Government, the British Government has been bound for coming from Israel - Britain has firmly but politely protested the principle, and has not been able to do so. The "Economist" is a leading part of the phantasmagorical solution. On every occasion when this freedom was violated, and invariably by the Egyptian Government, the British Government has been bound for coming from Israel - Britain has firmly but politely protested the principle, and has not been able to do so.

BUT it is not necessarily too late to restore international peace to the role envisaged for it by the Constantinian Convention. The 24-nation conference in London next week will consider some acceptable method of international control which, as things seem to stand at present, will have to be imposed on Egypt. The sponsors of the conference have announced that they are now willing to consider other proposals too. No compromise with the principle of complete freedom of transit can now be acceptable. But if the imposition of a solution on Egypt appears to be unpalatable to some of the participating nations, perhaps they would be less snickily in assuring no more than that Egypt will serve the undertaking she now so readily accepts - that nationalization will not threaten freedom of migration through the Canal. Egypt's good faith could be almost immediately tested by the release of the Bat Galim, which has been in Egyptian hands since she was seized in September, 1954. And Egypt's attitude to the passing of Israel ships in the future would provide a frequent and constant opportunity to check that the good faith is not dissipating.

HAVE WE OVERREACHED ourselves in guaranteeing full primary education for all children? In the United States, the number of school children, so many of whom come from primitive surroundings, is growing so fast that the country is unable to provide adequate schools and teachers. This is the result of a series of articles by George Laff, beginning tomorrow in The Jerusalem Post.

The same man brings you the concluding installment of "The Bay of the Sea," a report on the latest discovery at Chios in the Aegean Sea, and all the usual week-end features.

The auditorium of the Beit Hakerem Seminary in Jerusalem overflowed with young men and women from 18 different countries. They are in Israel for Jewish Agency seminars ranging from a few weeks to a year. The assembly yesterday was the fourth annual youth rally held by the Agency's Youth and Hehalutz Department which organizes the summer seminars.

Mr. Ben-Gurion opened his address with a special "affectionate" greeting to some ninety men and women dressed in khaki who were sitting in the first rows. The young people had been in Israel several months ago under the Emergency Service Scheme.

Despite the oppressive heat, the audience listened raptly as the Prime Minister, speaking in English, differentiated between Jewish life in Israel and in the Diaspora. Whether it was in a totalitarian state or a democracy, a rich country or a poor one, Jews abroad were dependent on the good will of their neighbors. Mr. Ben-Gurion said: "You enjoy a good life as long as it suits them. I hope you will continue to enjoy it."

In the Diaspora, he stated, the Jew is a "split personality" who lives according to laws and policies dictated by a non-Jewish population. "In Israel, we don't depend on others," the Prime Minister declared. "Paradoxically, the Jews have been here for 2,000 years, but only now are we free men in our own country."

Drier Today All Egg Sales Are Being Decontrolled

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV, Wednesday. — Eggs will be completely decontrolled shortly in order to induce the poultry industry to concentrate less on producing table fowl, Mr. S. Zurr, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, disclosed at the Tuva Council meeting today.

A big reduction in the price of frozen meat was now under consideration, he said, in view of the customers' sales resistance to the present price of 11.4 a kilogram. A total of 12,000 tons of frozen meat had been purchased from American supplies and is now being put on the market at the rate of 150 tons a month.

It is difficult, however, to dispose of even that quantity because of its quality. Originally 15,000 tons were to have been purchased, but the order was cut and could have been dropped altogether without any harm to the country's nutrition standard, Mr. Zurr explained.

As long as frozen meat is sold at the present price, there is no reason to fear that the poultry industry will be hurt, he said. The price of the American meat is reduced. (See "4,000 Tons" below for further details.)

In future, surplus grain will be mainly purchased to feed cattle.

Tuva has introduced a premium system for quality milk, and is going to assist settlements by loans to acquire cooling equipment. However, additional aid from the National Development Budget was necessary if the quality was to be improved at a reasonable cost.

4,000 TONS OF U.S. MEAT HERE

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Four thousand tons of frozen meat purchased from American supplies are already in the country, the Ministry of Commerce and Industry spokesman said yesterday.

Ten thousand more tons have been ordered, and another 6,000 tons are yet to be ordered.

The spokesman said that although the meat had a high percentage of fat, it was "edible" and tasty. It did not melt away in cooking like the fat in beef brought from Argentina.

Wholesalers are charged 11.200 a kilogram for beef, 11.400 for liver and 11.500 for tongue.

Israel is to pay 110m. in Israeli currency for the meat, 25 per cent of this amount is to be paid in advance, the balance is to be paid in the form of a 30-year loan.

Israel Footballers Get Olympic Bid 9th Man Cracks Four Minute Mile

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV, Wednesday. — The Olympic Games Organizing Committee has invited Israel to send a football team to the games in Melbourne in November.

The Israel Football Association has received the invitation because several nations who have already reached the final pool have stated that they will not send football teams to Melbourne. Elsewhere that did well in the preliminary rounds, including Israel and England, have now been invited to enter the final pool of 16 teams.

Teams who will not send footballers to Australia include Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

It has not yet been decided whether Israel will send a team to Melbourne. John Dickey has led the field at the half mile, in 2 mins 0.2 secs.

The race was a supporting event to the second day's programme of the British-Czechoslovakia International Athletics Match, in which Dickey won the three mile event on Saturday in the second fastest time ever recorded in Britain. Britain beat Czechoslovakia in the track and field encounter, winning the men's events by 110 points to 80, and the women's by 80.

The Czechs put up some outstanding performances. The only all-comers record of the meeting was broken by Olga Pikhova, who won the 100 yards dash with 16.40 seconds. The White City ground record was broken in the men's shot putting by Jiri Skoda with 17.17 metres.

In the track events, the British 100 yards champion clocked 16 secs on a sodden track.

Moscow Locomotives Rout Quebec All-Stars

MONTREAL, Wednesday (UPI). — The Moscow Locomotive team completely outclassed a Quebec all-star team 9-0 tonight as they opened their five-game Canadian tour before a crowd of 12,454 at the Desjardins Stadium.

The red-shirted Russians scored three times in the first half and then poured six goals past goalie Amadeo Chibin in the second half to complete the rout.

The prettiest goal of the game was the Locomotive's eighth, when centre-forward Sokolov dribbled down the right side, passed sharply to Major in the goal area, and the little inside left booted it into the corner.

The fans poured out onto the field as the game ended and began mobbing the players, both Russian and Canadian. The visiting Russians appeared somewhat bewildered until they were convinced that it was a gesture and meant no trouble.

Elmer, a Dutch agricultural expert who left his country recently after acting as an agricultural adviser on agricultural affairs at the Technion for 18 months. Mr. Elmer was invited by the Government to found a Department of Agricultural Engineering at the Institute of Technology, it was officially announced yesterday.

Among other achievements of the Dutch expert was the introduction of equipment which cuts down the waste in the harvesting of crops and increases the speed with which work can be done in vegetable plots.

A considerable part of the costs of the Agricultural Machinery Institute is already being covered by payments made to it by private farmers in return for the modernization of their machinery, it was said.
